Cardiff Cares
Foster a child

Could you make a difference?

We need more foster carers to look after vulnerable young people right across Cardiff, from all types of backgrounds.

There are lots of reasons why a child needs a loving foster family, their parents may be unwell or having relationship problems and some children may have been neglected or abused.

As a foster carer you can make a difference to the lives of these children, giving them the care and support they need for a happy and successful future. If you could give a child in Cardiff a second chance, please contact our friendly team on 029 2087 3797 to find out more.

Why choose to foster with Cardiff Council?

As a Cardiff Council foster carer you can rely on us every step of the way. Our foster carers get all the support and training they need and we are always on hand to give you help or advice.

We like to make sure Cardiff children are placed with Cardiff foster carers. Once you have been assessed and approved, we promise to find you a suitable placement as quickly as possible.

We offer competitive rates of pay, so you could earn the equivalent of a full time wage.

There are many types of foster care

Fostering is looking after someone else's child or teenager in your own home. It could be for a short or long period of time, or to provide a short break:

- Short Break / Respite Care
  Offers a short break from a few days up to a few weeks to provide a break for a child and their birth family.
- Short Term
  Placements of a few weeks or months until difficulties at home are sorted out, or alternative plans are made for the child's future.
- Long Term
  This is providing a permanent home to a young person who may be unable to return to their birth family, but may still have ongoing contact with them.

What our foster carers are saying…

Here's a snapshot of just some of the experiences of our foster carers….

Jamie

"Since growing up as part of a fostering family, I always knew that once my own family was complete, fostering was something that I really wanted to do.

We are new carers and have only been fostering a number of months, we have had a baby girl from newborn and we have really enjoyed welcoming her into our family.

Being a foster carer has allowed me to be home instead of going out to work and still be able to bring in an income. I feel that from me being home more we have all benefited as it gives us so much more quality family time together to enjoy."

Richard Single Foster Carer

"I have been a foster carer for just over 2 years, starting as a respite carer but rapidly moving on to someone who can take long term placements.

If you are thinking of becoming a foster carer then pick up the phone and speak to Cardiff Council. For me that was the most nerve wracking experience, for I feared that being a single male aged 55, they would say no. I shouldn't have worried, for there is a need for people with varied backgrounds.

The assessment process is rightly rigorous but this helps you adapt to what was going to be a very different life. Excellent training opportunities offered also prepare you for what you will very likely confront.

Being a foster carer is undoubtedly a lifestyle choice. Would I go through the last few years again in order to offer a child a life with stability and opportunities? The answer is a big YES!"

Stephen and Tanya

"We have been foster carers since 2005 - originally with a private agency and then with Cardiff for approximately 2 years.

We much prefer being carers for the Local Authority as we feel we have a lot more support and the children that are placed with us are better suited to our family make up.

We enjoy regularly attending the coffee mornings and training days as this gives us the choice to interact with the other carers and we've made close friendships with other carers from attending these sessions."

Cardiff Council Issue 148 March 2013

SCHOOL crossing patrolman, Keith Harris, was one of many Cardiff Council staff who went the extra mile during the recent cold snap when he trekked from Llanrumney to Canton for an hour and a half in the heavy snow and ice to make sure he could help children from schools in the area cross the road safely. Leader of Cardiff Council, Councillor Heather Joyce, said: "It's fantastic to hear of Keith's efforts to ensure he was able to carry on with his job despite the atrocious conditions. Keith's story is just one of many and I have been so impressed with the dedication and commitment shown across the Council, everyone did their utmost during the really bad weather we experienced."

Council Tax frozen as part of new budget

CARDIFF Council is pledging to freeze Council Tax at present levels in its budget for the next financial year, despite having to find in excess of £22m worth of savings.

The proposal to freeze council tax bills for households has been made as the Council prepares to set a budget unlike any other as a result of the real terms spending cuts passed on to local authorities by the UK Government.

The budget has been drafted to protect essential services in Cardiff, and while most service areas across the Council have had to find average savings of 15.3 per cent, key areas such as adults and children's services and schools are set to see a vital increase in spending.

Cabinet Member for Finance, Business and Local Economy, Councillor Russell Goodway, said: "We are proposing a freeze on council tax, which makes good on our promise at the recent local elections, because we know just how difficult it is for many people at the moment and we hope this measure will help those facing real economic hardship in some way."

Cardiff Council is not only facing real terms cuts in its settlement; it is also facing pressures from other areas including the reduction in specific grants, in particular a £1.3m shortfall on transfer of the Learning Disabilities Grant which supports people with learning difficulties who have re-settled in the community following long periods in institutional care. As a result of continuing pressures on Welsh Government budgets it is clear that the council's future financial settlements will also see greater cuts in real terms.

Council Leader Councillor Heather Joyce said: "It is against a really difficult financial backdrop that we have had to make some very difficult choices about what we do as a Council to ensure that the people we need to protect who are the most vulnerable in our city and the services which make a difference to many people's lives such as education and social services continue to be delivered.

"We have had to put forward some difficult proposals but we have tried to make sure that we are doing everything we can to be fair and equitable across the board with the cuts that we are proposing."

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by council employees. This month Nicola Richards, Manager of Cardiff Central Library, talks to Capital Times.

I have been the manager of this fantastic place since the opening of the brand new Central Library in 2009. Four years on and the building still never fails to give me the wow factor.

I have always worked in libraries. When I finished my history degree I decided to gain work experience at my local library, and I've never looked back. From Machen I moved to London to work at an Armed Forces Library which gave me the opportunity to travel around the world, including a visit to Cyprus before returning to Wales.

The official opening of the Central Library in May 2009 was my first big event. The Manic Street Preachers were there to formally open the library. We asked them to do it because, as they say in their lyrics, "Libraries gave us power" and they're as passionate about libraries and books as I am. Since the opening it's been a real team effort to keep the library on people's radar, not only as a focus for reading but as a fantastic community and cultural venue.

To help do this we've held a variety of events over the last four years, from speed dating to opera nights, with the aim of surprising and delighting new and existing customers. I oversee the activities, which are organised and led by different departments within the library. We liaise with local community groups, artists and residents to produce events not usually associated with libraries. At the moment we are working on Japan Day which will take place on the 25th May. We are really looking forward to celebrating the Japanese community living in Cardiff. There's even going to be a Kimono fashion show on the escalator of the library. Many of the events held at the library really create a buzz and we get some great feedback from people who come along. The spin-off for us is great PR and more new library members – which means more people using our great facilities and getting into reading.

I've recently secured some European funding to establish the Central Library as a Europe Direct Information Centre (EDIC). As part of this we will be launching business breakfast meetings which will take place in one of our meeting rooms. We will be helping residents and visitors to the city with any questions they may have about the European Union, such as how to apply for a job oversees, or how local businesses can expand into Europe. We have also launched a conversation club helping people whose first language isn't English. We are putting together an events programme to celebrate the EDIC so that's something for everyone to look out for.

My favourite part of my job is working with members of the team in coming up with new ideas for the library. It's great to see how passionate they are about their work in libraries. We have a variety of departments at Central and they all work really hard to deliver great initiatives to inspire visitors to the library.

I am very proud of what I have achieved with the team at Central Library over the last four years. We have received some great feedback from customers and we have even been named by the Sunday Times Travel Magazine as the sixth best library in the world. Mind you – I think they're wrong, because we're the best!

Superfast broadband rolling out in Cardiff

SUPERFAST broadband is the new generation of broadband - much faster, more reliable and using a different technology than we are all used to today. Whilst traditional broadband (known as ADSL) is delivered via copper telephone lines, Superfast broadband commonly uses fibre optic cable for some of the link between the customer and the exchange.

Superfast fibre broadband has the potential to deliver upload and download speeds that are extremely fast when compared to traditional broadband. The average ADSL broadband speed in Cardiff is around 5-6 Mbps but Superfast broadband can deliver speeds up to 80Mbps

Although Superfast broadband is mainly associated with fibre optic, other technologies such as satellite and advanced copper solutions can also be used to deliver faster broadband, to ensure that all corners of the city can be served.

The Superfast broadband infrastructure will make our area one of the best connected cities in the world and this opens up huge benefits for all.

- Businesses will be able to reach out to customers in new and innovative ways, streamlining the way they work and enjoying a greater quality of life, as well as greater productivity, and opening doors to a worldwide marketplace.
- People with disabilities or caring responsibilities who would find it hard to travel to work may now be able to work effectively from home.
- Flexible working will make it easier for people to have an improved quality of life through having more control over where and when they choose to work, with home broadband connections as powerful as in a city office.
- Elderly people may now be able to stay at home and enjoy 'telecare' in preference to going into residential care.
- Connections to friends, family and colleagues will have a new dimension as use of online video becomes an everyday reality.
- Online learning will open new doors and expand horizons for thousands of people.

People of any age who have never before considered setting up their own business may find that it is a realistic option now that they have world class broadband connections at their fingertips.

High speed broadband is available to over 90,000 properties in Cardiff through many internet service providers (ISPs) who will explain how easy it is to upgrade to faster broadband and enjoy a better internet experience.

Check your line to see if Superfast broadband is available to you via websites such as broad bandchoices.co.uk, or broad banduswitch.com and if so, contact your chosen ISP for more information.

Hot on the heels of Superfast is Ultrafast broadband for those users needing over 100Mbps. The Super Connected Cities project is working to bring this to Cardiff by March 2015. Look out for more information on Ultrafast Broadband and the Super Connected Cities project in the April edition of Capital Times, or go to DigitalCardiff.net/SuperConnected

Cardiff foster carers take a starring role

CARDIFF Council is launching a campaign starring its own foster carers to recruit more carers in the city.

The Council's 'Cardiff Cares' Campaign is aimed at attracting foster carers from all walks of life who can offer a home to some of the 530 children in its care. The high-profile campaign will include posters appearing on buses and bus stops, as well as using social media, radio and newspaper adverts to appeal to potential foster carers.

It is hoped the campaign, which features a variety of foster carers, will encourage people who have considered fostering to come forward and help provide badly-needed homes for some of the city's most vulnerable children.

The campaign was officially launched by Councillor Richard Cook, Cabinet Member for Children's Services, along with the five carers who star in the campaign.

He said: "Foster carers are ordinary people doing an extraordinary job. Local foster carers are essential to the welfare of Cardiff's most vulnerable children and young people, as it means they can stay close to their communities and maintain vital links with family and friends, and often remain in their school.

"We are desperately in need of new foster parents including ones that can take on sibling groups so they don't have to be separated. Foster parents can come from a variety of backgrounds. They can be single, married, divorced, widowed and can even foster members of their own family. As well as training, all our carers receive high level support and guidance. I urge anyone interested to get in touch with us."

Jamie Allen, aged 34, is a foster carer who features in the campaign's newspaper adverts. Jamie said: "Since growing up as part of a fostering family, I always knew that once my own family was complete, fostering was something that I really wanted to do.

"Being a foster carer has allowed me to be home instead of going out to work and still be able to bring in an income. I feel that from me being home more we have all benefited as it gives us so much more quality family time together to enjoy."

• Anyone interested in becoming a foster carer, or finding out more about fostering should visit Cardiff Council's website at www.cardiff.gov.uk/fostering or email fostering@cardiff.gov.uk

School uses snow blackout to its advantage

PUPILS from Llanishen Fach Primary School found their study of World War 2 evacuees brought to life when they were evacuated to a nearby church for lessons during the snowy weather.

Despite heating and power failure during the cold snap, Llanishen Fach headteacher Sarah Coombes, her staff and other council employees worked hard and pulled together to find creative solutions to enable the school to re-open after being forced to close for one day.

Teachers and teaching assistants made the most of the situation, using alternative locations for lessons. As a result Year 6 pupils were accompanied to Bethany Baptist Church on Heol Llanishen Fach for a morning where they continued their learning.

Year 6 pupil Matthew Burt, 11, summed up the experience, saying: "No tables, no chairs, just our imaginations and the feel of World War 2."

The lack of electricity brought a 'Victorian' feel to Year 5 pupils with the loss of computer technology in their room, while Year 4 pupils were about to start baking in the kitchen classroom but quickly switched to recipes for peppermint creams and coconut ice.

Daniel Garwood, aged eight, said: "I didn't think it was possible to cook without a cooker but they tasted nice."

And the school's kitchen staff were also integral to keeping the school open, providing over 300 swiftly prepared lunches.

Headteacher Sarah Coombes praised her "amazing staff" for overcoming so many hurdles to ensure the school remained open.

The Holocaust remembered

THE Welsh National Commemoration of Holocaust Memorial Day has taken place at City Hall.

Jointly hosted by Cardiff Council and the Welsh Government, Holocaust Memorial Day is an international day of remembrance for victims of the Holocaust and other genocides. The day honours the survivors and remembers those who have lost their lives. It also provides an opportunity for society to reflect on the way in which we live our lives today.

Cardiff Council Leader, Councillor Heather Joyce attended the event along with the Lord Mayor of Cardiff, Councillor Derrick Morgan.

Each year Holocaust Memorial Day has a UK wide theme and this year it was 'Communities Together: Build a Bridge'. The theme asked people to remember the communities that have been affected by holocaust and genocide, as by looking to the past we can learn from the mistakes made and celebrate the differences in our own communities.

The event heard from Renate Collins, who came to Wales after escaping from Poland when she was just five years old. She was part of a rescue mission called The Kindertransport which helped thousands of refugee children to flee Nazi persecution.

"I had a temperature and chicken pox when my mother had to put me, her only child, on a train, not knowing if she would ever see me again," she said. "I lost 64 members of my family."

Councillor Joyce said: "It's important that Holocaust Memorial Day is marked in the city to ensure these terrible events in history and which, unfortunately, still happen today are never forgotten.

"It's also important that those indirectly affected remember those who lost their lives in this terrible time in history. Remembering the mistakes of the past helps us to ensure they never happen again. The communities together theme highlights how important it is for people to respect those in their community."

The budget proposes the reduction of a number of posts but we will try our best to ensure that they can be achieved via voluntary severance and the deletion of vacant jobs. The Council has also announced increases in some fees and charges to help make ends meet.

The budget also proposes that, with few exceptions, the organisations which receive grants from the Council will see cuts to their Council funding by a minimum of 10 per cent, five per cent less than is being asked of Council services.

Councillor Goodway added: "We appreciate that cutting grants for community groups is not easy but we are only asking them to shoulder the same, if not less, of the burden of these cuts as our own internal services.

"But this is a proposed budget which is also about laying down the foundations for the future to make sure that investment in our city is not halted as we need to create a competitive capital for the people of Cardiff and Wales to help address concerns over employment and opportunities for everyone, and in particular young people, in Cardiff.

"We will therefore also be prioritising investment in our city to support these aims, and help reduce future costs for public services. Cardiff Council will work with partners to deliver projects to take Cardiff to the next stage of its development and reinvigorate the city's economy that has seen both employment and economic growth stall in recent years."

• The budget was due to be set at the February 28 meeting of full council, after Capital Times went to print. Please see next month's edition for a full budget break-down.

Big names to stir the imagination in the first Cardiff Children's Literature Festival

CARDIFF will host some the UK's best loved authors and illustrators this month in a celebration of children's books.

The very first Cardiff Children's Literature Festival www.cardiffchildrenslitfest.com will run from Wednesday, March 20 to Sunday, March 24, turning the city into a picture book of myths and characters.

Big name writers such as 'How to Train your Dragon' creator Cressida Cowell; 'Horrible Histories' illustrator Martin Brown; comedian and 'Young Bond' author Charlie Higson; the world expert Tintinologist Michael Farr; Bardd Plant Cymru (Children's Poet Laureate) Eurig Salisbury and S4C's TV stars Stwnsh! are just some of the attractions for youngsters who appreciate the magic of books, and grown ups who want to write them.

The first Cardiff Children's Literature Festival is being put on by Cardiff Council, Literature Wales, Cardiff University and Amgueddfa Cymru / The National Museum of Wales, and supported by Legal & General and Waterstones, with the story unfolding across a variety of venues around the city centre.

• Comedian & Author Charlie Higson

The programme will use St David's Hall, Cardiff Castle, Cardiff Story and National Museum Cardiff to cater for a range of ages and tastes - from princesses, mermaids and dressing as fairies in the Rainbow Magic mornings, to aliens, rugby zombies and time travelling with Doctor Who.

Highlights across the week include 'Writing The Detectives' with 'Young Bond' author Charlie Higson, and 'Young Sherlock' author Andrew Lane.

Young People's Laureate for Wales Catherine Fisher covers her new fantasy series; while author Mark Brake and rap artist Jon Chase will explore the science fiction of Doctor Who.

There will also be a range of Welsh language contributions from the likes of Dewi Pws, Angharad Tomos and Bethan Gwanas, while youngsters can also discover the fantastical characters of the bestselling 'Edge Chronicles'; take on the Cardiff Zombie Walk; and discover how Martin Brown draws 'Horrible' in teaching youngsters history.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "This is such an exciting event for the city, and a wonderful addition to our programme. We've seen the power that books have to fire youngsters' imaginations, and so we have assembled some of the most popular figures in children's literature in both English and Welsh to bring this to life in March and to enthuse and inspire youngsters to read."

• Illustrator Martin Brown

• The full programme is available on www.cardiff childrenslitfest.com and tickets are on sale for all events through Ticketline UK on 029 2023 0130. You can follow the festival on Twitter @CDFKidsLitFest

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Laura Palmer will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

MARCH

SPRING is a great time of year to look out for queen bumblebees as this is when they first emerge from hibernation. There are 24 species of bumblebee in the UK, and some species have very large queens.

When a bumblebee queen first emerges, she feeds on flowers, drinking nectar to gain energy. You will quite often see large bumblebees hovering low over the ground, inspecting holes and grassy tussocks – this is a queen bumblebee trying to find a nest site.

Bumblebees are social creatures and have an interesting lifecycle. They live in a nest ruled by a queen who is helped by smaller female (worker) bumblebees.

Sadly, bumblebees in the UK have been declining in recent decades due to changes in agricultural practises which have largely removed flowers from the landscape, leaving bumblebees very little to feed on. To find out more about how you can help bumblebees visit www.bumblebeeconservation.org

I'll be back next month with more biodiversity attractions.

Changes to Transcash service

FROM the beginning of April residents will no longer be able to make a payment to Cardiff Council using the Transcash service available at the Post Office.

Transcash is a manual method of paying for Council services, such as Council Tax and Housing Benefit, through the Post Office.

The last day that residents will be able to make a payment via this method is Friday, March 29.

Did you know that there were a variety of alternative and cheaper ways that you can pay for your services?

Full details of payment methods for each service are available on the back of the invoice you will have received.

These include:

- The ability to set up direct debits for Council Tax payments.
- The ability to pay by debit or credit card either online or via C2C on 029 2087 2087.
- If you wish to still make a payment in a post office branch for Council Tax or housing rent or benefit overpayment we can issue you with a card to enable you to do that. To arrange this please contact C2C.

If you need further information or assistance please phone C2C on 029 2087 2087 who will be happy to assist you with your query.

Millbank puts residents' knowledge to the test

CHILDREN from Millbank Primary School in Ely have been learning about their home city and putting its residents to the test at the same time.

As part of their focus on the capital this term, and along with visits to the Cardiff Story Museum and Cardiff Castle, Millbank pupils have been finding out about Cardiff's status as the world's first Fairtrade capital city.

A group of the youngsters put together a short survey asking residents what they know about Fairtrade and, in order to raise awareness of Fairtrade products and their benefits, handed out Fairtrade roses to shoppers on Queen Street in exchange for a pledge to look out for the Fairtrade logo.

The survey results showed that 53 per cent of people asked knew Cardiff was a Fairtrade city but more than 80 per cent did not know that Cardiff was the world's first Fairtrade capital city. The data collected will be used as part of maths lessons and the graphs will help the children to plan activities for Fairtrade Fortnight and beyond.

Millbank headteacher, Gail Allen, said: "Fairtrade is something the children have great enthusiasm for. They want everyone to be treated fairly and see the need for sustainable development."

It's been a busy start to 2013 for Millbank and their efforts in promoting the all-round health and wellbeing of pupils and staff at the school were recognised when they were presented with a triple Healthy Schools Cardiff Network award at the Celebrating Success event for outstanding work in three action areas - mental and emotional health and wellbeing, environment and hygiene.

Millbank joined with schools from across the city in a busy, fun-packed and informative day at the County Hall event, organised by Cardiff Council's Healthy Schools team and its partner agencies. Schools were awarded for their healthy schemes and initiatives and had the opportunity to share best practice with each other through pupil presentations.

Share your stadium memories

THIS striking Dragon costume is one of the many objects recently donated to the Cardiff Story Museum.

The costume was worn by Sian Carter who performed as part of a dance troupe in front of 72,000 people at the opening ceremony of the 1999 Rugby World Cup.

The opening ceremony also saw performances by Shirley Bassey and Catatonia and a fly past by the Red Arrows. With Wales being the principal host nation of the tournament, the opening ceremony, first match and final took place at the newly built Millennium Stadium.

The first match saw Wales beat Argentina 23 – 18, with Wales going on to win their group. They were knocked out in the quarter finals by Australia who went on to win the tournament.

Did you take part in the opening ceremony or do you have any memories of the day? Do you have any memories, stories or artefacts related to sport or leisure in Cardiff that you would like share with us at the museum? If so then please call 029 2087 1030 or email cardiffstory@cardiff.gov.uk.

Youth Mentoring Programme celebrated

CARDIFF'S Youth Mentoring Programme was celebrated at a special event at Gabalfa Community Centre.

As well as recognising the success of the Youth Mentoring Programme, the event allowed professionals, parents, foster carers and young people the opportunity to find out more about how it works in partnership with other agencies.

The Youth Mentoring Programme was started in 1999 as an attempt to address the educational needs of Cardiff Council's 'looked after' and 'at risk' young people.

It provides one-to-one mentor support to young people, in order to promote and encourage appropriate school attendance and to raise educational achievement.

A young person's involvement with the programme is secured through the building of a voluntary relationship with a mentor who helps assess their individual educational needs and problems that may be creating barriers to learning.

Young people within the 'looked after' system are often socially excluded due to the nature of their backgrounds, and the circumstances leading to their placements in residential or foster care are diverse.

In many cases they are removed from their home into unfamiliar environments and can become isolated from their families, friends, schools and communities which often results in loss of confidence and low self esteem.

This can have a devastating impact and lead to higher levels of educational underachievement, consequently reflecting on their future life chances.

The Programme recognises that social issues affect the lives of 'looked after' young people and attempts to help increase their self esteem which in turn, helps towards developing better coping skills.

Cabinet member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Julia Magill, said: "The Youth Mentoring Programme works with the most in need and detached young people from across Cardiff. This event allowed people to see the great work it does as well as witnessing first hand the great achievements of our young people over the last year."

The event was sponsored by Cardiff and Vale Colleges, supported by other agencies such as Safer Wales, First Campus, Education Welfare and Social Services and attended by Alun Michael, the Police and Crime Commissioner for South Wales.

Young people that are mentored on the Youth Mentoring Programme were able to receive and gain recognition for awards that they achieved whilst on the programme and the event provided professionals, parents, foster carers and other young people with the opportunity to witness these great achievements.

Have your say on Community Boundary and Electoral Arrangements

CARDIFF Council is conducting a community boundary and electoral arrangement review to consider what changes, if any, are needed to existing communities across Cardiff.

The review started this month with the final recommendations being submitted for adoption in January/February 2014.

As part of the consultation process, the Council is inviting the public including community groups, associations, ethnic groups, religious bodies, political representatives, political parties and community councils to have their say.

Cardiff Council is required to ensure that the community structure we have in place is relevant and reflects the identities and interests of the community in each part of Cardiff.

A separate review of the County Council electoral divisions will be conducted by the Local Government Boundary Commission for Wales in its programme of reviews which commences in 2014. In undertaking its review, the Commission will view the community structure in place as the primary building blocks for the review.

It is important that this community review is undertaken ahead of the Commission's review to ensure that the interests of the community are represented at all levels of local government.

We will be asking the public to have a say on:

- Community boundaries.
- Community electoral arrangements for both communities with and without an existing Community Council
- The effect of community changes on County Council representation.

You can submit your opinion online at www.cardiff.gov.uk. Alternatively, you can get response forms at County Hall or from any local library in Cardiff. Electorate details, boundary maps and terms of reference are also available at these locations.

Please submit your comments by May 31. All submissions will be reviewed and draft proposals made available for further public consultation.

News in brief

Creating jobs, training and apprenticeships as well as green energy

PROSIECT Gwyrdd – a partnership between five councils – has recommended Viridor as the successful company to produce partly green energy from the rubbish that will remain after residents and partner councils have recycled as much as possible.

If approval is given by each council, the partnership's non-recyclable rubbish will be treated through a modern energy from waste facility at Trident Park in Cardiff from April 2016. There are significant environmental benefits of producing heat, steam and electricity from this rubbish compared to burying it in landfill sites.

Energy from Waste is a proven technology, used extensively in Western Europe alongside high levels of recycling and composting. The facility will be regulated by the Environment Agency under very strict conditions, far more stringent that other industrial combustion processes.

Information on the partnership is available online via www.prosiectgwyrdd.co.uk and 'drop in sessions' are being provided for residents on the following dates:

- March 4: Star Leisure Centre, Splott – 3pm to 5.30pm
- March 5: County Hall, Cardiff Bay – 3pm to 7pm
- March 6: Moorland Community Centre, Splott – 5pm to 8pm
- March 7: Norwegian Church, Cardiff Bay – 3.30pm to 6.30pm

Boxing clubs are a knockout

CARDIFF Council is presenting eight boxing clubs around the city with community boxing development grants to improve facilities, purchase new training and safety equipment and assist in the recruitment of new junior boxers.

The grants have been agreed following the success of British boxers at the London 2012 Olympic Games and also the positive impact on Cardiff after the city hosted the AIBA International Boxing Association Road to London training camp, as athletes made their preparations in the lead up to the Games.

Boxing clubs which have benefited from the grants include Highfields Boxing Club in Ely; Llanedeyrn Boxing Club; Phoenix Boxing Club in Llanrumney; Prince of Wales Boxing Club in Grangetown; Splott Boxing Club; Victoria Park Boxing Club; Roath Youth Boxing Club and Tiger Bay Boxing Club in Fairwater.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas, said: "An allocation of £30,000 was set up for boxing legacy projects and I am delighted to have had such a positive response from our community boxing clubs, particularly as they are in some of most deprived areas of the city. I firmly believe that it is by investing in grassroots clubs like these that we will uncover the stars of tomorrow.

"We recognise that these clubs do a tremendous job in working with children and young people in their local communities and by encouraging young people to take up the sport they help to sustain clubs and boxing for the long term. It would be fantastic to see more Cardiff boxers representing Wales at the Commonwealth and Olympic Games."

Walking back to happiness

CARDIFF Council is developing a Walkable Neighbourhoods Plan to help deliver better walking environments across the city.

Walking is at the heart of creating vibrant communities, is free and offers a wide range of health and environmental benefits.

The development of the Walkable Neighbourhoods Plan is being funded by the Welsh Government in response to its recent consultation on the Active Travel Bill White Paper. This will require local authorities to map existing local walking and cycling routes and to identify and map improvements necessary to deliver integrated walking and cycling networks.

Cardiff Council has already developed a Strategic Cycle Network, which identified a network of core cycling routes and is informing investment in cycling infrastructure across the city.

The Walkable Neighbourhoods Plan is currently in the development stage. In addition to reviewing the existing walking network and identifying key local attractions, such as schools, shops and community facilities, the Council would like to know how you currently travel, what would encourage you to walk more often and how the existing network could be improved.

Please share your views with us by completing the short survey at http://surveys.cardiff.gov.uk/wnp/en or call 029 2087 3254 by March 14.

Executive Member for Strategic Planning, Highways, Traffic and Transportation, Councillor Ralph Cook said: "Our aim through delivering the Walkable Neighbourhoods Plan will be to encourage more walking journeys in Cardiff, especially for those short journeys to local services, such as to schools, shops and public transport.

"The Council is aware that not everyone in the community will be able to walk or cycle but this plan will develop a framework that will ensure investment in walking infrastructure is focused, represents value for money and has maximum impact in terms of encouraging walking."

Be prepared for Welfare Reform

FROM next month changes are being made to a whole raft of welfare benefits under the Government's Welfare Reform programme.

One of the most significant changes is the Under Occupation Rule or "Bedroom Tax" which will affect around 4,000 people across Cardiff.

The rule means that Council and Housing Association tenants with one or more spare rooms will have their housing benefit reduced. However, if the tenant or their partner is a pensioner, this rule does not apply.

Under the rule, two children are expected to share a room until at least the age of 10, increasing to age 16 if the two children are the same sex.

Around 2,300 Cardiff Council tenants (around 18 per cent of all its tenants) and a further 1,800 Housing Association households will be affected by the Under Occupation Rule.

Many households, who currently think they haven't got a spare room because their children have a bedroom each, will have their housing benefit reduced.

Find out if you are affected by Welfare Reform by visiting the Council's website www.cardiff.gov.uk/WelfareReform or calling C2C on 029 2087 2087.
